2005 Future Prospects

Dear Baseball Prospect,

My name is Steve Bort. For seven of the last eight years my team, the Future Prospects, has won the Continental Amateur Baseball Association High School World Series in Euclid, Ohio. The team was managed by former National League All Star Tom Herr. The Future Prospects is regarded as the premier High School aged team in the entire United States.

You have been recommended to me as a potential college baseball prospect. This is a signal to you that you should start doing all you can do to achieve that potential.

Many of the players on my team were first recognized at my Baseball Prospects Instructional Camps, held across the United States. Players from my camps have been awarded over $8 million in college scholarships.

My camps are designed to highlight the skills of serious high school baseball players and to give them an opportunity to display their skills in front of professional instructors, scouts and coaches. My camps are conducted like a professional tryout, usually under the direction of former major league players and coaches. The former major league players include Bill Singer, Tom Herr, Kevin Saucier, Rodney McCray, Dave Stapleton, and Frank Seminera. At each camp several high school coaches and college coaches assist our staff in the tryout.

The camp offers you, the college prospect, a tremendous opportunity to display your skills and measure them against top area competition in a professional tryout setting.

I will be holding a camp in your area this year. An information sheet with dates, times and the person you need to contact will be included in your envelope.

Each player will receive professional instruction, any play in a game.

Many of my former players have gone on to successful college and professional baseball careers. Thirty-five players who have previously played for the future prospects have gone on to play baseball in the Major Leagues. They include Alex Rodriguez of the NY Yankees, John Damon of the New York Yankees, and Todd Helton of the Colorado Rockies.

The cost of the camp is $190.00, by any standards a worthwhile investment in your Baseball Future. Consider the following professional instruction: competition with your area's best players, a tryout for the premier amateur high school team in the United States and the opportunity to advance your baseball future by preparing you for the next level of play. This is a camp you cannot miss, if you make one investment this year for your baseball future, this should be the one.

I have enclosed an application form. Please complete it today and mail it back to me with your deposit to secure your position on the camp roster. In order for each camper to receive maximum benefits from this camp, camp rosters will be limited. Please return your Registration Form as soon as possible. The camp dates and locations are listed on a separate sheet.

Please call me or the coach in your area if you have any questions. I look forward to seeing you at one of my camps.

Best to you in baseball,

Steve Bort
